

Need More Marketing Power?

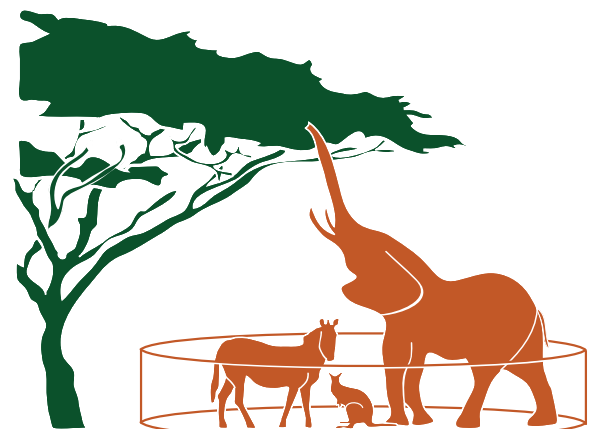

Zoo in a Jungle Marketing fulfills your marketing potential while staying in your budget.

Hiring a new employee involves more expenses than simply an annual salary. Other costs, such as taxes and health insurance, increase your employee expenditures. There are also unquantifiable expenses like vacation days and sick time allowances. Each employee is a significant investment, but great companies need great work. What if you could receive the same quality of work without the liability of hiring a new employee?

Zoo in a Jungle Marketing is a full-service marketing company that will work with you to develop a marketing budget to fit your needs. Amanda Cullen is experienced in all aspects of marketing from strategy to design to implementation. For each hour Amanda works for you, she dedicates high-energy marketing brainpower to your company. No vacation days or sick time. No administrative time. And you only pay for services when you need them.

Choosing Zoo in a Jungle Marketing for your marketing needs is a smart move for any growing company. Call Amanda today to get started!
